Conformational properties of an [M-D]-3-hydroxypropionic acid derivative as revealed by time-resolved and steady-state optical spectroscopy. An effective one-step synthesis of an optically active [M-D]-3-hydroxypropionic acid derivative (HPA) has been achieved via an ionic Diels-Alder reaction between benzaldehyde and methyl N-(prop-2-yn-1-yl)formamide-2-oxamate to provide, for the first time, a molecular system with localized chirality. Time-resolved fluorescence and optical rotation spectroscopy have been employed to disclose (i) the racemic states of the HPA molecule in various conformational regimes and (ii) the relative energy sequence of the twisted, gauche (G), E, and cis-syn (Z) conformers. Molecular structural features essential to modulate interconversion between the enantiomers have been identified. For methyl groups flanking the central carbon atom of the prop-2-yn-1-yl chain (i.e., either in the zwitterionic or ionic form), the trans-Z configuration is the most stable. Protonation of the quinimine nitrogen blocks both exo and endo isomerization pathways. Contrarily, simultaneous protonation of both the carboxyl and quinimine nitrogen atoms increases the exo character of the zwitterionic form. For methyl groups in the (E) forms, protonation of the quinimine nitrogen atom that is "external" with respect to the exo carboxyl group has a significant effect on endo migration (i.e., the (E) to (Z) transition). In addition, the chirality-dependent control over the planar chromophore structure, through a gauche-to-anti conformation change of the central carbon atom, may play an important role in the absorption spectra of the HPA derivative. Fantasy Grounds is a great tool to create your own games, and a nice feature with its stat cards is how it can be divided into various color groups and compartments for different kinds of statistics (Attack, Defense, Speed, etc.). Since it's a modeling program, Fantasy Grounds can also be used to generate 3D graphics for your dice, tokens, and stat cards. With Monster Grin's set of Frequent Foes token packs, you can augment your Fantasy Grounds game with over 150 tokens for every creature you can think of! All monster player characters (the ones you can play in the RPG game) and randomly generated elementals are included. Please read the included text file for more detailed information on how to install the tokens to your Fantasy Grounds game. Monster Grin's Frequent Foes token packs were created and designed by James Holloway. "If you're asking if we're gonna make another one, then the answer is yes. We made two of them, we are going to make more of them, we love them and we want more people to have them! Welcome to America and to Fantasy Grounds! Your GM's friends and your players and their friends and your friends and other players who are new to Fantasy Grounds should all have these tokens, whether they play online or off."- Monster Grin Studios, Inc. Pick up this Monster Grin Frequent Foes token pack today! For the full list of all Monster Grin's token packs, check out our comprehensive Fantasy Grounds Token Pack Catalog. The NCAA Division I Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS) conference announced the move, according to a Thursday statement from Ohio State. Penn State announced in July it would return to the Big Ten starting in 2013, leaving the Big Ten East with two teams - Ohio State and Michigan - beginning the season. News of the move broke on Wednesday when the Big Ten released its full football schedule. The change will likely have little immediate impact in the Big Ten East. Penn State was initially scheduled to play five Big Ten teams in 2012, but the move to Big Ten East is not expected to affect that schedule. The Buckeyes will play three teams from the Big Ten in 2012, though they'll play the same three from 2011. The Big Ten East will include Akron, Maryland, Massachusetts, Miami (OH), North Carolina and Purdue. Though the slate has changed, it will likely not mean significant changes for Meyer's team.
